

ASKS FOR CITIZENSHIP ONE DAY AFTER ARRIVAL IN CITY FROM NORWAY

GETS JOB SAME DAY AND PEDER HAMMER EXPRESSES DELIGHT

Cousin of James Peterson Breaks Several Records in Finding a New Home

So well does he like America that one day after arriving in La Crosse from Norway to make his home in this section of the country, Peder H. Hammer appeared before Clerk of the Circuit Court Leonard Kleber and declared his intentions of becoming a citizen of the United States. Mr. Hammer wants to become a citizen in 10 days and promises to establish a record for naturalization here.

The young man is a cousin of James G. Peterson, well known traveling salesman residing at 1217 Avon street. When Mr. Peterson was in Norway in 1912 he promised Peder's father, now deceased, that he would send for the lad when he decided to come to this country to make his home. In accordance with this promise Mr. Peterson mailed a ticket to the young man six weeks ago. Mr. Hammer lost no time in getting to La Crosse.

Boy is Delighted
"Judge Kleber termed it some speed," said Mr. Peterson, in telling of the arrival of Mr. Hammer. "I would call it the end of a perfect day. This boy with flaxen hair and rosy cheeks stepped off from train No. 5 on the C. M. & St. P. Ry. Thursday last week and showed the blue coat a slip of paper with our home address. The policeman telephoned the house to learn if we expected this foreigner and mother, 82, speedily said 'yes' and to send him up. He called a taxi and did so. I asked him how he liked an auto ride and he informed me it was a Ford and Norway was run over with them. Friday forenoon he was before Kleber getting his first papers showing his intentions to become a citizen of the U. S. A.

Gets Job Quickly
"Friday afternoon I took him to Holmen to learn if some one could use a farm hand as this was his occupation in the old country—and in less than an hour he had hired out for eight months at a very satisfactory wage. Monday of this week he was on the job. Saturday we spent in buying some clothing. I asked what size collar he used. He said 14 inches, 21. Of course, these were Norwegian sizes, but we finally learned the collar was 15 1-2; the shoes size 8.
"He said that had he known it was so easy to get here he would have written for a ticket long ago. He had no trouble whatever. Everybody has been very nice. He marvelled at the size of our houses. He said that Norway has very modern farm machinery, similar to the kinds in use here. Tractors are being used some there, also.
"He has taken a course in animal husbandry. Norway's farmers are weeding out scrub cattle and raising mostly blooded stock. Times are rather hard there at present because so many are out of employment. He does not think he will ever go back. "He has a fiancée there but did not let her learn of his leaving. He

Nothing New To Her

Elizabeth's grandparents, although a devoted couple, were prone to excited arguments.

Two little girls who were playing with Elizabeth paused in astonishment at some heated discussion between the old couple.

Elizabeth, impatient at the interruption, exclaimed, "Oh come on! Don't pay any attention. They quarrel like that all the time."—Galesville Republican.

JEWISH RELIEF IS GIVEN SUPPORT IN MANY CIRCLES

NEW YORK. — The Knights of Columbus and the Salvation Army, through their chief executive offices, have not only commended the purposes of the $14,000,000 nationwide appeal being made by the American Jewish Relief Committee, the People's Relief Committee and the Central Relief Committee for the relief of the starving and destitute Jews of eastern Europe, but have bespoken for the campaign the generous support of Christians as well as Jews. In a letter to David A. Brown, national chairman of the appeal, James A. Flaherty, Supreme Knight of the Supreme Council of the K. of C., writes:

"I can assure you that the Knights of Columbus everywhere are in sympathy with the object of the humanitarian appeal you are making. Christians should welcome the opportunity to reciprocate."

Colonel William F. Jenkins, National Secretary of the Salvation Army, in the absence of Commander, Miss Booth, who has been on an inspection trip to Hawaii wrote Mr. Brown expressing the earnest wish of the Salvation Army for the success of the fund-raising effort "to alleviate human suffering in the stricken zones of Europe where helpless women and children, and old men, victims of post-war conditions there, hang on the verge of starvation or worse."

NEVER before has the amazing Knight sleeve-valve motor been available in so fine a car at so low a price. Europe uses the Knight motor in her most famous and expensive cars. Now Willys engineering, Willys quantity production, put it in the reach of all in a car equally famous, but far less costly.

The Motor

The Willys-Knight motor is the highest development of the Knight sliding sleeve-valve principle. It gets more power out of less gas than any other motor of its size and weight. It is free from valve trouble, free from carbon trouble, smooth, quiet, flexible. Scientific tests and driver experience show that it grows more powerful with use. And its life limit has never yet been ascertained.

The Car

The Willys-Knight Car is especially designed to match the motor in long life and distinction. Graceful, refined, dignified, its sturdy steel chassis beats off jolts and jars and holds the body permanently free from rattles and squeaks. Vigorous springs translate the roll of the road into undulating ease. It is fleet, comfortable, responsible—and a sound investment.

What You Don't Know about a Battery!

A battery is a painted box, which, hidden away within your car and properly connected, vitalizes the starter, receives a charge from the generator, and runs the lights and the horn. So much for the outside. It is the inside that marks the difference between an ordinary battery and a RAY.

The difference is in the plates, the vital part of the battery. Plates in the RAY Battery are made from the famous Lavier Formula, the most remarkable discovery in electro-chemical science since the invention of the wet cell. It produces plates that achieve the difficult combination of hardness and porosity—plates that meet the conditions of battery performance more exactly than any others yet devised.

These plates within the RAY Battery assure you that the "painted box" will do its full duty in your car. In fact, you get an ironclad guarantee to that effect. The RAY still remains the only battery guaranteed unconditionally for two years. Install a RAY in Your car!

HOLMEN MAN ADOPTS "SUN PEEP" NAME FOR HOLSTEIN

Clarence H. Holter of Holmen, pure-bred Holstein breeder, has registered the prefix "Sun Peep" as the trade-mark name which will be used hereafter in registering the pure-bred Holsteins raised by him. The prefix names are listed by the Holstein-Friesian Association of America and are reserved for the exclusive use of the black and white breeders. They are the means of identifying the various breeding establishments throughout the United States. Wisconsin is known as the farm name state in the union because more of these names are in use in Wisconsin than any other state. A farm name signifies love and pride. The land, the herd, the family are all better for this little attention handed to us from the traditions of the old world.

There are nearly 20,000 such names registered with the Holstein-Friesian Association at Brattleboro, Vermont. The secretary will help you select one and he will look to the recording of it for anyone on request. The various Holstein County Clubs are urging Holstein-Friesian owners to adopt the suggestion of L. L. Oldham, secretary of the Wisconsin state association, and that is to attract the attention of the passers by in these days of auto travel with a neat sign displayed on the roadside at the entrance to the farm yard setting forth the name of the farm and the name and address of the owner. A neatly illustrated sign bearing the photo of a Holstein cowmilked on steel in black and white color may be secured for use with the name in making an attractive sign which if appearing on the road side near the farm entrances all over the county would be an advertising asset impossible to compute in money worth to the breeders of the county.

L. L. Oldham is secretary of the Wisconsin Holstein Association.

RUTH BEACH, San Francisco (Cal.) Lodge No. 26

Six years ago this summer there were only about thirty-five boys and girls at Mooseheart. My father came in June of 1914. We had come quite a distance. Our former home having been in Helena, Ark. I hardly know a distance. Our former home having been in Helena, Ark. I hardly know a distance. Our former home having been in Helena, Ark. I hardly know a distance.

During the first part of my third year at Mooseheart the school was well organized and I was put into the Domestic Course. I continued in this course added and I went into one of the sewing classes. I continued in this course until the end of my second year in High School. Then I started a Commercial Course. This course consists of two years each of shorthand, typewriting, and bookkeeping. The last four months of this course I have spent in one of the offices, getting practical experience. I have finished the stenographic course and I hope to go on to college, work in my way through, where I will take a course in advanced secretarial work.

Shortly after I came to Mooseheart the Moose Lodge in Helena was disbanded and for five years I was here without any Lodge at all. But in June of 1920, my sister and I were adopted by the San Francisco Lodge. This certainly made a lot of difference to me. I can imagine how much fun it is living here where everyone has a Lodge, the members of which are all so interested in their wards at Mooseheart and me not having any. I can imagine how much fun it is living here where everyone has a Lodge, the members of which are all so interested in their wards at Mooseheart and me not having any.

Of course we do not pretend that any of us measure up completely to the ideal of Miss Patterson, but she has put our ideal in words. One of the strongest influences in the life of the girls is the Camp Fire organization. The ideal of the Camp Fire girl goes hand in hand with the ideal of the Mooseheart girl. The development of a noble and pure womanhood, Camp Fire is one of the mediums through which the girls gain an appreciation of the finer things in life, as well as learning to glorify work and enjoy each day as it comes to its full extent.

Special attention is paid to religious instruction at Mooseheart. Each boy and girl is required to attend church, such as is expressed by the wish of their parents. Both Catholic and Protestant services are held here every Sunday morning, at different times, so that the same building accommodates both classes of students. In the case of the Protestant services, Dr. J. A. Rondthaler being in charge. The Catholic service is held immediately by Sunday School. The Sunday School Superintendent has charge and the lesson of the day is taken up with all the students. The students then break up into groups, there being about forty different Sunday School classes. There are about sixty little boys and girls in the Primary Department of the Sunday School.

These classes are each in charge of an adult from surrounding cities. There not being enough teachers, the classes have been taught by volunteers from among the older students. Very interesting lessons are worked out and these have proven to be very helpful to those who attend. A great many people believe that living in any home, even such a one as Mooseheart, will develop selfishness. This has not been found true. At Mooseheart, we are permitted to become selfish, especially where there are so many small children who demand your time and attention. Then there is also the advantage of living in a school-home like Mooseheart. We know that there are over half a million people all over the world who are looking toward Mooseheart. It is they who are offering us these wonderful advantages and we would have no appreciation at all if we did not respond in some degree.

The home-training that is given in the Yalls is very thorough. The girls each take a course in domestic science, thus getting the theory work and then going on to do a certain amount of the work in the Yalls, thus getting the practical work. The Practice House, used in the Domestic Science classes, is a small model house that was fully furnished and is taken care of by the girls taking the Domestic Science Course. These girls, under the direction of the teacher, planned the arrangement and selected the furniture for this house. It is very beautifully furnished and has been used to great advantage in this course.

Every girl, of course, has a natural home-making instinct, though it is more pronounced in some than in others. The Domestic Training at Mooseheart gives this instinct a fine opportunity for development. When a girl goes out from Mooseheart she is as capable of taking her place as the wise administrator of a household as of earning her living. I feel as if we were try to pass on to others what has been given to us. I feel as if we were being sent out as messengers from Mooseheart and it is up to us to carry the message that Mooseheart has to send out. This is a message of Service and Brotherly Love.

BILLIE BURKE'S HOUSE FIGHT STARTS TWO NEW SUITS

Owner Asks $25,000 for Alleged Damage to Place; Shoe Dealer Garnishees

CHICAGO.—The argument between Billie Burke, actress, and Mrs. Frank Brown, who became famous when Miss Burke recently obtained an injunction to retain a house in the North Shore residential section she had rented from Mrs. Brown, took on more fiery Saturday when two suits were filed.

Mrs. Brown, organizer of a widows' protective league and prominent socially, filed the practice of a $25,000 damage suit against Miss Burke and her husband, Alo Ziegfeld, Jr., alleging that Miss Burke damaged her home and her character to that extent.

A few minutes later a shoe dealer sought court aid to garnish the rents Mrs. Brown says Miss Burke owes her, saying that he was unable to otherwise collect a $77 bill against Mrs. Brown.

Miss Burke rented the Brown home, a beautiful mansion, when she came here a few weeks ago. The rental was $1,150. Miss Burke said that was to cover three weeks. Mrs. Brown said it was only for two and that she was to dispose of the house, unless $5,000 more were paid for rent. Miss Burke obtained an injunction and retained possession.

Mrs. Brown then testified that Miss Burke telephoned her husband to New York every night at $15 a call, the charges going on Mrs. Brown's bill and again sought to dispossess her, but was blocked by the injunction. She also objected to Miss Burke's dress and statements attributed to the actress that the home was filthy.

The battle of words resulted in Saturday's suit.

RESPECT FOR HOME AND SCHOOL URGED

(Continued from page one) mental development; second, physical development; and third, moral, or character development. An individual cannot thrive on one alone. Neither can best results be obtained by the development of two of these factors to the neglect of the third.

"We have read much and much much upon the mental development side of education, and I believe it is essential, for I like to think of school as a sort of a finding institution, a place where boys and girls are led to develop their mental powers, and with the help of teachers, to analyze their capacities and aptitudes so that when they become men and women, they may go out into the world better prepared to be self-supporting and happier citizens than otherwise could obtain.

Strong Bodies Needed

"But the maximum mental development depends upon a physically strong body. We have just gone through a great campaign to emphasize the value of wholesome food. When we were told that over thirty per cent of the boys who were called in the first draft were unable to respond because of physical defects, many of which could have been prevented by proper attention during their school days, we were inclined to doubt the statement, but on second thought, we have accepted it as a condition which must be changed.

"After all, we are not surprised that the condition exists, for we have not sacrificed to a very great extent many of these health habits, those habits of right living, right eating, and right sleeping acquired in the days when our form of society was more simple, when the hour or two following the evening meal was spent by father and mother, sister and brother, about the dining room table, exchanging experiences, reading one to another, or working together. Those hours were truly great character-developing hours in the history of our nation. And have we not substituted for them a form of society which takes our children away from the home influence following the evening meal, that deprives them, in many cases, of the proper amount of sleep, that is developing in them a nervous tension under which they cannot possibly do the most efficient school work? Sleep is essential for a strong physical body and maximum mental efficiency.

Grand Jury To Quiz Spokane High Students

SPokane, Wash.—Charges and counter-charges made recently in public addresses and signed statements in newspapers regarding alleged delinquency by students in Spokane high schools, resulted Saturday in the calling of special sessions of the grand jury to investigate juvenile delinquency. The grand jury was called by Judge R. M. Webster.

"There is a growing frequency of cases of child delinquency," Judge Webster wrote in calling the jury.

He declared that one cause was the furnishing of narcotics and liquor to children at dance halls, roadhouses and "low type" restaurants. The call to the jury said there were indications that many boys and girls, students in the public high schools, are misbehaving themselves, indulging in improprieties and unseemly conduct.

INTERLOCKING R. R. MACHINE DENIED

BY B. & O. HEAD

WASHINGTON.—Charging that an interlocking "railroad machine" exists and that the railroads had resorted to improper propaganda, statements made by Frank J. Warner as a witness for the railroad brotherhoods were denied Saturday by Daniel Willard, president of the Baltimore & Ohio railroad, in closing his testimony before the senate interstate commerce committee. Mr. Willard will be followed next Wednesday by Julius Kruttschnitt, chairman of the Southern Pacific board who is to submit a statement upon the comparative condition of the railroads during and after the period of federal control.

30 CENTS FOR ENFORCING LAW. WASHINGTON.—Without comment, Representative Connally, Democrat, Texas, Saturday offered an amendment to the department of justice-state department appropriation bill which would have provided 30 cents for enforcement of the civil service law. Amid laughter the amendment was rejected by a roar of "Noes."

FOREIGN VALUATION AGREED TO AS BASE OF TARIFF BILL

Republican Members of Senate Finance Committee Favor Plan; Report Tuesday

WASHINGTON.—Foreign valuation as the underlying principle of the so-called permanent tariff bill finally was agreed upon Saturday night by republican members of the senate finance committee. The vote was seven to three, but how the committee members divided on the ballot was withheld.

With the settlement of the valuation question, the majority practically completed its many months of work on the tariff measure and it was stated that it would be presented to the senate either on Tuesday or Wednesday after the democratic members of the committee have been given opportunity to cast their votes on the bill. The majority report also has yet to be drawn up.

The valuation plan as adopted includes several bolstering provisions designed to take care of unusual situations growing out of present world conditions and, more particularly, the marked depreciation of currency. The provisions are in line with recommendations made to congress by President Harding in his first annual message last December.

Senate committee republicans look for a long fight in the senate over the tariff measure but they are hopeful that it can be put through within sixty days.

GAVIN M'NAB TAKES STAND AS WITNESS IN ARBUCKLE CASE

Chief Counsel for Defense Testifies to Methods of Obtaining Certain Depositions in East

SAN FRANCISCO.—The appearance on the stand of Gavin McNab, chief counsel for the defense, in a prosecution witness, and the reopening of the main case of the defense, marked Saturday's session of the third trial of the manslaughter charge against Roscoe Arbuckle (Pat) Arbuckle.

McNab testified regarding the obtaining of certain defense depositions by Albert Sabath, Chicago attorney, the prosecution testifying to know how they came into his possession. He testified that the whole matter was handled by eastern agents of the defense, Charles H. Brennan, associate defense counsel, also testified regarding the depositions.

Mrs. Virginia Warren and Miss Helen Maladyne Whitehurst of Chicago, defense witnesses in the third Roscoe Arbuckle manslaughter trial, were subpoenaed Saturday in connection with the testimony they gave in the trial. Mrs. Warren and Miss Whitehurst testified that Miss Tappe was taken out a number of times in the last few days before she attended Miss Ruppel on the occasion of the birth of a child.

MINNEAPOLIS.—Edmund Pennington, president of the Minneapolis, St. Paul & Sault Ste. Marie railway since 1909, and connected with the Soo line for 35 years, announced Saturday that he intends to resign soon. The exact date has not been determined, he said, but it will be in the near future.

HARDING REFUSES TO SEND TROOPS TO COAL MINE REGIONS

The mine workers' officers will have to take a vote in the one question at issue, which is will you take a wage reduction? This is an officers' strike, pure and simple. The men, in my opinion, would announce a willingness to take a cut."

State Troops Out

ALBUQUERQUE, N.M.—Fourteen units of the New Mexico national guard left here in a special train Saturday for Gallup, N. M., for duty in the coal mine disaster where disturbances by strikers are feared. Adjutant General Brown called a conference in Gallup this afternoon of mine operators, mine workers' representatives and city and county officials when the governor's proclamation of martial law will be read and rules for its enforcement laid down.

Strike Leaders Optimistic

NEW YORK.—Officials of the United Mine Workers at strike headquarters here Saturday continued to claim victories for the miners in the non-union bituminous coal fields of West Virginia, Pennsylvania and eastern Kentucky. Additional non-union mines are being closed down, they asserted, and the number of organized workers who have joined the strikers has passed the fifty per cent mark. Except for occasional arrests for alleged intimidation, union leaders said no violence had been reported in any of the contested districts.

Some Operators Seek Peace

WASHINGTON.—Chairman Nolan of the house labor committee Saturday gave out a telegram received from the central and northern Ohio coal operators' association saying that its members would be glad to "try and end the coal strike by a joint meeting with the miners as the committee had suggested, but wanted assurances from the department of justice that they would not be prosecuted for violation of the anti-trust laws in such meeting.

ELKS' BUILDING IN NEW ORLEANS IS BURNED; 9 HURT

NEW ORLEANS.—Fire broke out Saturday night on the fourth floor of the Elks' home, where the building was crowded with guests. Nine injured have been taken to hospitals. The structure, one of the finest Elks' homes in the country, appeared doomed soon after 1 a. m. Sunday.

All guests escaped uninjured, however, those taken to hospitals being burned by fire which had been caused by friction in a fan belt. The Times-Picayune received a report Saturday that six Elks and two fire insurance men, were in the auditorium gymnasium when the roof collapsed, were buried in the ruins.

PROF. THOS. JONES OF U. W. FACULTY ADDRESSES TEACHERS

The speaker spoke highly of the school system of La Crosse, and of the splendid spirit of progressiveness and co-operation which he had noticed among the teachers.

Compulsory Schooling

One of the greatest pieces of legislation ever enacted in the opinion of Prof. Jones is the compulsory school attendance law. "The children of the state are entitled to be forced to go to school," is the way he expressed it. In several instances, the public school system has lessened the power and lowered the standard of the homes from which the children come, by undertaking to do too many of the things which should be done in the home. The speaker said that the public school should "supplement the home, but not displace it."

Study Buildings

"This time has arrived when we must begin to study the buildings carefully before we put them into use as school houses. Adequate schools are an absolute necessity. The buildings should be free from noise and congestion. Where there is noise, a class room, the strain on teachers and pupils is so great that the highest standard of efficiency is impossible. Since atmosphere plays so important a part in school life, it should be as tastefully decorated with beautiful and worthwhile things. Vocational training, art, and music are important factors of school life which are not as yet appreciated enough. Physical training should be developed intensively in all of the schools of the state.

Students Too Young

Prof. Jones stated that the average student at the University is too young to get the most out of his course. He is old enough to get excellent grades, but the last, lasting benefit of the course is hard for him to get because of his age and his limited outlook on life.

Forty-seven percent of the young people who graduate from high schools of the state last June went on to some higher institution of learning. This proves that the value of high school training as a preparation for further schooling is unlimited. Equally important, however, is the training for those who do not go further to school, for graduation from high school means for them the end of their organized school life.

Taxes to be Higher

Taxes in the future will be higher than they have ever been in the past, predicted the speaker. The reason for this is that the standard of living of the public at large is becoming higher. People are no longer satisfied with the things which seemed all right to them a few years ago. The want everything better now—better roads, schools, etc., and they will have to pay for them.

Prof. Jones Told of the Ways of Raising Revenue for School Purposes in Other States as Compared with Wisconsin

Minnesota has her iron mines, Michigan copper and Illinois coal but timber the great natural resource of Wisconsin in the past, is gone. He said, however, that our state still retains the fertility of the soil, manufacturing is increasing and there is no doubt but that Wisconsin will be able to raise money enough for educational purposes to equal or surpass anything that her neighbors can do.

The Program was Delayed somewhat because of the fact that the train on which Prof. Jones was traveling was late in arriving.

A delightful luncheon was served before the meeting and an interesting program given. Last was added to the program by the humorous songs sung by Miss Levine and Miss Zerler.

FEDERAL NITRATE PLANT AT MUSCLE SHOALS PROPOSED

Senator Norris Has Bill for Government Owned and Operated Corporation

WASHINGTON.—By The Associated Press.—A government-owned and operated corporation to be conducted under the supervision of three directors appointed by the president for development of the nitrate and water power projects at Muscle Shoals, Ala., was proposed in a congressional resolution made public Saturday by Senator Norris, chairman of the senate agricultural committee.

The resolution will be introduced in the senate Monday and referred to the congressional committee with hearings begin then on the four private proposals for Muscle Shoals, submitted by Henry Ford, The Alabama Power company, Frederick Langstrom and Charles Parsons.

While no appropriation is asked for the development of the projects, congressional authority is requested for the creation of a "federal chemical corporation," and for the secretary of war to complete the construction of dams Numbers 2 and 3 in the Tennessee river, as well as the making of surveys in the river and its tributaries for the location of storage reservoirs and if necessary the construction of additional dams there.

NAVAL BILL CARRIES OUT 5-5-3 RATIO

Under the terms of the treaty, the United States is to retain eighteen battleships. The appropriation for these battleships in full commission will be a large complement of men on board as has been carried in recent years, together with 103 destroyers, 54 submarines, all our available cruisers, necessary oilers, tenders, airplane carriers, ammunition ships, colliers, store ships and every other auxiliary required to make the 18 capital ship fleet complete, well rounded out and properly manned and equipped.

Britain's Naval Strength

"It will be interesting to the country to know that Great Britain has provided for her navy estimates for the coming year for 98,560 officers, enlisted men, marines and students in training schools and naval academies. This number also includes about three thousand men in the coast guard service while our coast guard is under the navy department. It does not, however, include personnel for aviation while the bill reported makes provision for 2,700 men for aviation. It ought also to be said that the British figures do not include about 7,000 officers, men and boys, maintained by the dominion governments, principally by Australia.

Day Waives Immunities

At the end of the afternoon devoted to the questioning of state witnesses, Day arose and waiving all immunities, declared both he and his wife were ready to take the stand and swear to the circumstances of the death of Lieut. Col. Beck's death.

Mrs. Day, clad in a dark serge suit and wearing a black sailor hat, sat through the delineation of the finding of Beck's body in a pool of blood and saw both photographs and X-ray pictures of the army officer passed about and discussed. She breathed deeply at times but never approached a breakdown.

On the stand her eyes were moist but she did not weep. Her testimony was given in a low voice and it was necessary to caution the spectators who climbed on chairs to get a better view.

"I Didn't Mean to Kill," Day

Day sat slumped in his chair during the hearing, chewing a cigar. When he took the stand he spoke in clear tones but showed the strain he was under. His voice grew strained when he testified:

"I didn't mean to kill him. That is the truth."

"He jumped back and put his hand back as if to fight," he said, "and I struck him with all my might."

Day said he did not know whether his finger was on the trigger of his revolver. He testified the weapon discharged accidentally.

"One time I caught the gun and put it to my head, but I didn't shoot. I thought of my wife and child," said Day, relating how he surprised Beck, entered his house and went upstairs where he obtained his revolver.

JAP HITS BRIDE TO GET "COLOR" FOR MOVIE PLOT

WEST ORANGE, N. J.—A grand jury will add the final scenes to a motion picture scenario which Takais, a Japanese, declared had been "stolen" from him by the bride of the bridegroom, 22, a bride of two months, whom he met in the Orange mountains. Tsji, said he had sought the solitude of the hills for local color for a scenario he was working out. The plot called for an attack on a beautiful damsel, he explained, and he got so in the spirit of his creation that upon meeting Mrs. Cartheuser, he struck her on the ear. She retaliated by drubbing him with her umbrella. He fled and was later arrested at his last Orange home. Mrs. Cartheuser told the court Tsji was masked when he attacked her.

LIBBY PACKERS TO CUT CAPITAL STOCK A FOURTH

CHICAGO.—A special meeting of stockholders of Libby, McNeill & Tabor, packers, for the purpose of reducing the capital stock from $27,000,000 to $6,750,000 was called Saturday for April 25. Under the proposed reorganization it is planned to pass a resolution authorizing the company to buy back one share of stock for each four now held, thus cancelling 2,025,000 shares of outstanding stock. The statement announcing the meeting, said that the past year had been exceedingly hard on the company because of general business depression and that the loss for the year ending March 4, 1922, was $22,428,768.

Did not hear the report," Mrs. Day testified.

Got Blood on Hands

"I looked down and saw his lips move. I lifted his head, then I put his head back down and the blood oozed out. Then my hands were covered with blood."

Later she testified she wiped the blood from her hands and arms when officers brought a wet towel.

"There will be people who don't believe," she said brokenly.

After the tragedy she said she mourned: "I pray that my little girl won't live; that she won't come home."

"What is there for her to live for?" she asked with a gesture of hopelessness.

Beck, 21-year-old daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Day, a student, was at the University of Oklahoma the night of the tragedy.

Beck Trusted Friend

"When he was struggling with you and he asked you to come to his room, you didn't think he was trying to do anything wrong then?" asked County Attorney Hughes, explaining that he wanted to bring out the instant in Beck's mind.

"I didn't think I didn't know," Mrs. Day replied. "What would you think?" she questioned.

Mrs. Day testified Beck had been a trusted friend. He was the idol of her daughter, who regarded him as a big brother, she said.

She said Beck was not under the influence of liquor the night of the tragedy. Never before, she said, had the army man given any indication that he was other than "a perfect gentleman."

NAVY TWO-THIRDS OF BRITAIN'S FORCE, CHARGES DENBY

Reduction of Men to 65,000 Would Put U. S. Behind Even Japan

WASHINGTON.—Secretary Denby Saturday night launched a fight on the naval bill as reported to the house, taking full issue with the contention that it will provide an American navy on the ratio of five-five-three.

In a formal statement and in a communication to the house naval committee made public today for the first time, it is disclosed that Secretary Denby and naval experts contend that by the reduction of personnel proposed in the bill the navy actually will be five for Great Britain, three for Japan and two and a half for the United States.

Five of the eighteen battleships allowed in the United States by the naval limitation treaty, Secretary Denby says will have to go out of commission for lack of crews to man them; the European station will have to be abandoned; all the twelve new gun ships will be included in those laid up; all submarines of the second line will have to be put out of commission as will all small craft set for training reservists.

With an enlisted force of 65,000 men which the committee proposed instead of 90,000 asked by the navy establishment the United States navy, Mr. Denby says, will be reduced to two-thirds of the force of Great Britain, and less than Japan.

Lloyd George, British premier, received a vote of confidence from parliament during the week. The majority was so great that the figures came unimportant. President Denby was as strongly supported by the French deputies. This means the denouement conference will proceed as planned. If it merely confirms latest attempt to adjust German reparations, its proceedings based upon this grand promise little. "Two men one can't" is the answer. "Two men one can't" is the answer. Chats With Your Gas Man

Do you know that the average bill for gas service is one of the least expensive items, one of the smallest necessary outlays in the household budget?

For example, gas service used exclusively for a typical winter's month can do the following things for a family of five persons living in an eight room house:

Automatically heat 4,000 gallons of water.

Cook 90 meals in about 75 hours, a saving in time of at least two full days over the old coal stove.

Heat the entire house, either room heaters or central automatic heating boiler.

Lighten the work of cleaning at least 25 per cent; save on redecorating; assure the housewife freedom from drudgery and eliminate the smoke and soot nuisance.

BARGE LINE TRAFFIC ON UPPER RIVER MAY BE GOVERNMENT TASK

Col. Goltra Does Not Seem Disposed to Make Good on His Contract

FEDERAL OFFICIALS HOPEFUL OF SUCCESS OF THE PROJECT

Point to Down River Profits to Sustain Contentment

While it is announced that barge line traffic on the upper Mississippi east of La Crosse is assured this year as a result of the completion of four tow boats and nineteen steel barges, Edward F. Goltra of St. Louis may not operate the fleet, according to word received here. Instead, Uncle Sam may have to supervise the removal of commercial navigation on the upper river.

Edward F. Goltra of St. Louis has been given until April 20 to make good on his contract to take over this line. While no official statement is made, the indications are that the contract which he has held for some time will be cancelled and that the federal government will turn over the equipment to Colonel T. Q. Ashburn, director of the inland and interstate waterways service of the Army and put the tow boats and barges into operation between St. Louis and Minneapolis.

Granted Extension

Mr. Goltra has a contract to take over the base of four tow boats and 19 barges built for operation on the upper river during the war. This contract called for his taking possession on January 1. He did not do so and asked for an extension of time to April 1. Today he made another plea for an extension and was given until April 20 to make good. The contract was to run for five years and it is intimated that it will be cancelled if he does not comply with the terms of the contract on April 20. The transportation act provides for government operation of this line for the period of the contract in event the contractor fails to make good.

Didn't Want Contract

There are several phases of the situation that leads to the belief that Mr. Goltra will not take over the government property. There is an impression in the office of the army engineers in this city that Mr. Goltra does not wish to begin operations up on the upper river but that he had made the contract for the government in the hope that instead of operating on the upper river he could use it on the lower river from St. Louis to the gulf. The federal government is already operating a line at a profit along this stretch of the river.

The rates on the government boats are 20 per cent lower than the rail rates between the same points. Mr. Goltra's contract provided that he could put in rates that would be not less than the rail rates without the consent of the secretary of war. In order to induce him to operate the line along the upper river Secretary John W. Weeks has authorized him to cut the rate 20 per cent. This gives him the same consideration that the government itself is obtaining on the lower river line.

See Profit on Upper River

According to information government officials are confident that the upper river line will be a success. The barges were designed originally to carry coal up the river and bring ore down the river to St. Louis. It has been suggested that these barges be covered so that they will be available for general merchandise traffic.

There is some opposition on the part of Secretary Weeks to undertaking the operation of the upper river, and, in fact, he is more or less opposed to any government operation of barge lines because of his belief in the republican doctrine of no government ownership. He will delay the transportation act, however, if it is necessary, and will undertake the operation of the upper river line.

Lower River Traffic Heavy

Theodore Brent, formerly a member of the shipping board, is the civilian manager of the lower river line. He is confident that a profit can be made on the upper river with the fleet that is now available. Under his management the line on the lower river is paying all operating expenses and setting aside $10,000 a month for depreciation. The army engineers have reported that this is too large an allotment for this purpose.

In March the traffic along the lower river was 50,000 tons of up-board freight. The traffic down the river was only about 25,000 tons, but this was due to the fact that grain was not moving in any volume. It is expected that when the upper river line is established joint rates will be made with the railroads for the movement of traffic. They have made some joint rates along the lower river, and efforts are being made to extend them to points where they are not now in effect.

There He Goes

An ex-doughboy and an ex-gob were applying for work on board a cargo ship. The sailor was signed up on the spot, but the soldier, much to his disgust, was required to get recommendations from former employers before he could sign.

Three days at sea found the soldier swabbing the deck and the gob over the side of the ship with a brush and the first heavy swell took him, bucket, sailor and all from the side of the ship. The soldier watched him as he struggled to regain the ship, but each swell took him further away. "Remember the way you hired without any recommendations?" asked the soldier.

"Yes," sighed the doughboy, "there he goes with your bucket of paint!"—Judge.

"YELLOWBACKS" ARE BACK IN TOWN AFTER ABSENCE DURING WAR

"New Kind of Money" in Circulation as "Gold Certificates"

Many La Crosse folks enjoyed the thrill last week of finding "a new kind of money" in their pockets, when bills of "gold certificate" type found their way into public circulation in any large numbers since the war. At the banks it was explained that about half of all the paper money given out to banks by the federal reserve bank in denominations of $20 or greater is now of the "yellowback" kind, that practically disappeared in the war.

Need for concentrating all gold reserves in the treasury and federal reserve bank vaults in the war as a basis for note issues led to the withdrawal of practically all of the gold certificates, which must be represented, dollar for dollar by actual gold deposited in the federal treasury.

With the return of gold certificates in general circulation the types of paper currency in circulation at the present number six. La Crosse banks said on Saturday. These are gold certificates, represented dollar for dollar by gold; silver certificates, similarly backed up by silver; federal reserve notes, which are the liability of the particular bank that issues them; national bank notes, secured by government bonds, and United States notes or greenbacks, which are secured by the credit of the United States government only.

Quenched Love Affair

When I was in the third grade in school I was quite "crazy" about a boy who sat across the aisle from me. One Monday morning, a few minutes before the 3 o'clock bell rang, I was sitting in my seat studying. The boy came into the room. He walked up to my desk and said: "Say, Mary, Saturday Howard and I went fishing and I caught a fish that long," and as he threw out his hand he slapped me across the face. And so ended my first love affair.—Exchange.

THE Studebaker LIGHT-SIX will appeal to every buyer who wants a low-priced car that will be satisfactory in performance, appearance, comfort and endurance.

And in addition to its recognized superiority in these essentials, the LIGHT-SIX carries refinements found only on more expensive cars.

The LIGHT-SIX is equipped with cowl ventilator operated from the instrument board; cowl parking lights; inside and outside door handles and large rectangular plate-glass window in rear curtain. A thief-proof transmission lock, which reduces the rate of insurance to LIGHT-SIX owners 15 to 20 per cent, and cord tires are also standard equipment.

Long, semi-elliptic springs (50-inch in rear; 36-inch in front) and soft genuine leather upholstered cushions, nine inches deep, provide unusual comfort. Its 40-horsepower motor delivers ample power for the hard pull. And vibration is practically eliminated by Studebaker's method of machining the crankshaft and connecting rods.

The intrinsic value of the LIGHT-SIX is unmatched at anywhere near the price because Studebaker does not skimp on materials or workmanship but uses the best. It is built complete in the most modern and complete automobile plant in the world, making possible its low price of $1045, f. o. b. factory.

Studebaker has been building quality vehicles and selling them at fair prices for nearly three-quarters of a century and is the largest builder of six-cylinder cars in the world.

Touring, $1045; 3-Passenger Roadster, $1045; Coupe-Roadster, $1375; Sedan, $1750. All prices f. o. b. factory.

PLAN COLLEGES FOR WOMEN IN ORIENTAL LANDS

Committee of Women in La Crosse Working to Aid in Big Plan

The establishment of Union Women's Colleges in the Orient is an adventure in international friendship which promises more for international peace than armies and navies.

We are all interested in internationalism, in disarmament, and in all other new world movements but we know that great republics and free nations cannot be built on illiterate, despised and degraded womanhood. A nation will not rise much above its womanhood.

Four hundred million women in Asia appeal to the men and women of America for relief from physical suffering caused by ignorance of physical laws, utter lack of sanitation, incredibly early marriage, and lack of knowledge regarding the care of children leading to barbarous treatment and needless suffering in absence of medical aid.

These women plead, too, for education to open the doors of their minds. Only one in one hundred of the women of India can read and only one in one thousand of China, the great literary nation, know their letters. These women have minds notwithstanding the reaching of their religious which deny the women have minds and soul. They have proved that they can both learn and teach. Schools from primary and high school have been carried on by church boards for sixty years and two women's colleges, one in China and one in India, were established in 1905 and 1909 respectively. Aside from these little was done for real training for leadership till about the time of the war when a start was made.

At the end of the war we find seven Union Christian colleges for women in the great capitals of the east. Two of them are medical schools, for training the women as physicians.

The present quarters of these colleges are rented in large part and are already overcrowded. Hundreds of students who are eagerly seeking this training are turned away.

While some thirteen denominations in America and England are able to bear the current expenses of these colleges they cannot provide the funds for needed additional lands and buildings.

In this crisis the trustees of the Laura Spelman Rockefeller Memorial Fund have promised approximately a million dollars toward the three million required, on condition that the remainder be raised before January 1, 1925. Hence the campaign is now on for the schools which will furnish leadership of the Orient in proportion to the manner in which they can be equipped.

In La Crosse a committee of women from the various churches and clubs of which Mrs. A. J. Elbert is chairman, has planned a dinner to be given at the Congregational church, Wednesday evening, April 10, at 6 p. m. It is hoped that a large number of citizens will be present to hear an address by Miss Ida Green, executive secretary of the central west committee.

An Irish Gesture

"You didn't undertake to convince Michael Callahan that Ireland is really free?"

"No. He made a gesture of dissent and I left."

"You permitted yourself to be routed by a mere gesture?"

"It was a compound gesture. He took off his coat and began to roll up his sleeves."—Birmingham Age-Herald.

ARCHBISHOP HAYES SCORES JAZZ AND OTHER FADS OF "DISORDERED TIMES"

(By MOST REV. PATRICK J. HAYES)

Catholic Archbishop of New York. NEW YORK.—Jazz and such fantastic fads as psycho-analysis and advocacy of birth control are symptoms of the disordered times we are living in.

They cannot last. If they could society could not last. Too many people are playing with modern philosophies they do not understand, with false sciences and disturbing theories. They are interfering with the laws of the soul, trying with finite minds to comprehend the infinite.

ARCHBISHOP HAYES

Speculation Dangerous

I believe it is dangerous for inexperienced people to study and deal with speculative theories, because it upsets them and gives them false standards.

Seeking to explain love and marriage and divorce and human acts by psycho-analysis is delving into theories that are vapory and unreal. It disturbs the perfect balance between God's creation, His eternal law, and our faculties of memory, will and understanding.

These false sciences are immoral as well as dangerous. They are immoral because they undermine man's responsibility. That is one of the evils of birth control: through it man wants to dodge his responsibilities. Disaster awaits society when women measure their lives not by the number of their children, but by the number of their husbands. Divorce has become a national curse.

To prevent human life by birth control is criminal and horrible—much as taking life after conception. The latter kills the body, and the former denies both a soul and body an existence about to begin. It is pagan philosophy.

Man alone cannot cure the ills of the times. He needs a Samaritan from above.

Symptoms of Disorder

Jazz and modern feminine dress and these pagan philosophies are symptomatic of the disorders in the intellectual, social and moral world. The symptoms are not as serious as the evils they conceal.

If one does not lead a normal life one is apt to become very easily abnormal mentally, physically or morally.

Theories that try to explain away the responsibility of human acts are a grave menace to society as well as the individual. We will be judged not by what we thought or by what we felt but by God's law. The sense of responsibility and the obligation of accountability for all of one's actions form the basis of society. We trust ourselves to the engineer of a railroad, to the captain of a ship, to the surgeon, to the person who sells us food. Why can't we trust God a little bit?

Faith is the basis of the everlasting things that count. Pagan philosophies are futile. Faith does not mean that we see a thing or know a thing clearly. When we do, it ceases to be faith—and becomes knowledge.

Man doesn't meet disaster in the air as long as he obeys the laws of the air. So he must obey the laws of the soul, and keep within the limitations set for him by God's eternal law. Otherwise disaster.

NEXT AMERICAN CARDINAL?

Pope Pius XI will appoint two new American cardinals this year, say reports from Rome.
Most Rev. Patrick Joseph Hayes.

Archbishop of New York, is mentioned as one of them.

This is Archbishop Hayes: A man under medium height, slender, young looking in spite of his gray hair brushed straight back; an unusually square jaw, a ready smile, eyes that twinkle; a man quick of movement, and with a trick of putting humorous interest into the things he says, and a habit of smiling and interjecting interrogatively the word "See?" as he talks.

He has been a priest 30 years, bishop 7 years, archbishop 3 years. He is 54, born in New York Nov. 20, 1867. He attended Manhattan College, St. Joseph's Seminary at Troy, N. Y., and the Catholic University of Washington.

He was ordained in 1892, appointed chancellor of New York in 1903, domestic prelate to the Pope in 1907, president of Cathedral College from 1908 to 1914, consecrated bishop Oct. 28, 1914, rector of St. Stephen's Church in 1915, Catholic chaplain bishop of the United States Army and Navy in 1917, and on March 10, 1919, he was appointed Archbishop of New York.

Three Minds With But One Thought

Suitor (anxious for chance to propose)—Look here, Bobby, if you'll see that no one comes into the conservatory for half an hour I'll give you a dollar.

Bobby—Gee! Three dollars! Easy money!

Suitor—How's that?

Bobby—Why, one from mother, one from sister and one from mother.

Boston Transcript.

But Results are Serious.

The Charwoman's Husband (at door)—"The misses is very ill, ma'am, and won't be able to come this week."

Lady—"Oh, I am sorry, George. Nothing very serious, I hope?"

The Charwoman's Husband—"Well, ma'am, she was so bad last night I 'ah to go to the pictures by myself."—Punch.

PRESBYTERY AND MISSIONARY SOCIETY MEET THIS WEEK

Spring District Meetings of this Section of the State Will Open on Tuesday

WOMEN'S MISSIONARY SOCIETY MEETS WEDNESDAY

New Moderator and Clerks
Will be Chosen

The spring district meetings of the Presbyterian churches of this section of the state will be held in La Crosse next Tuesday and Wednesday. Fifteen churches are privileged to send delegates. Sessions will be held in the First Presbyterian church.

On Tuesday evening at 7:30 the Presbytery will be constituted by a sermon from the retiring moderator, Rev. John Kronenweyer, of New Amsterdam. His theme will be "The Unsearchable Riches of Christ," after which a moderator and clerks will be chosen and plans made for the business session of the morrow. Deliberations regarding the increased efficiency of the church will occupy an important place in this meeting, and delegates to the general assembly meeting in May will be elected.

On Wednesday, beginning at 9:30 a. m., the Women's Presbytery will assemble in the auditorium, opening with a devotional program conducted by Mrs. Oren E. Frazer. Reports of the officers will be given and "Methods" will be discussed. Mrs. E. T. Samuels, of West Salem, is the presiding officer. Mrs. W. B. Sanders will read her annual report at this time, along with other special committees.

A luncheon for delegates and friends will be served at noon, to be followed by an address by Miss M. M. Moninger of Keshok, Hahnau, China, who comes with a recent impression of the oriental situation. This address will be in the auditorium and is open to the general public. Mrs. G. M. Wiley is soloist.

In the evening there will be another popular address by Miss Maud A. Kenilburgh, of Pittsburgh, Pa., field secretary of the church's work among the colored people of the south. Miss Dorothy Woods is the soloist of the evening. Friends are welcome to the meeting.

Missed it All

Two Irish-Americans, one of whom had never before seen Erin were representing the United States at a convention in Dublin.

"Fifty-three years ago," declared one, "I left Ireland a naked little boy without a dollar in my pockets."

The audience was greatly affected and the other speaker decided not to be outdone.

"Fifty last week," he cried, "until last week I had never set foot in the land of my birth."—St. Paul Daily News.

JAMES DUANE DOTY

James Duane Doty, founder of Madison, was the foremost political leader in the days when the pot boiled in territorial Wisconsin.

Doty's outstanding personal and political rival was Henry Dodge who in the late thirties and early forties was the second major party to the Doty-Dodge controversies in the territory which rivaled in Wisconsin the importance assumed by the Lincoln-Douglas battle in Illinois two decades later.

Most of Madison's and Wisconsin's early political history centers about these two outstanding characters.

One of Doty's most prominent political struggles came in 1838 when he was elected a delegate to Congress to succeed General W. Jones. General Jones who had held his seat during two sessions refused to give it up on the plea that his last session was the first session of the twenty-fifth Congress and that a member could not serve half his term in one Congress and half in another. The decision of the House on the matter, however, favored the diplomat.

Doty was then admitted to the Senate. In 1840 he was re-elected his seat. In 1842 he was re-elected and Dodge, then Governor of the territory, whose term had just expired, was re-appointed.

Party lines then, as today, were indefinitely drawn. Doty had been considered extremely friendly to the Democrats but in spite of this fact he was repeatedly nominated as the candidate of the Democratic Whigs and Governor Dodge usually represented the staunch Democrats.

Old records tend to show that of the two early political leaders in the territory, Dodge was, in character, the greater of the two. He was the brave, rugged Indian fighter, the man of conviction and firm principles. On the other hand, however, Doty had more energy, ambition and his manners were more polished and suave.

It is not strange, accordingly, that before the expiration of Governor Dodge's term in office that President Tyler appointed James D. Doty as his successor.

The appointment of Doty to succeed Dodge was made the center of a great campaign and Dodge was subsequently nominated unanimously to run for Congress at the Democratic Territorial convention held at Madison in July. The result of the election which followed a long and bitter campaign was a majority of 567 votes for Dodge. The victory of the ex-Governor was thus announced in the Madison press of the day: "The Proscribed of the President, the Accepted of the People, the Veteran Dodge Triumphant over the Combined Federal and Doty Forces, Wisconsin thoroughly Democratic."

The pangs of this bitter campaign were felt in the territory long after the election and resulted in serious criticism of Doty's conduct as governor.

Climaxing this serious criticism of the governor came a request from General Dodge in February, 1843, asking the President to remove James D. Doty from office. Among the reasons given were, "That he had in violation of, and contempt for, the laws of the United States, and the Territory, refused to cooperate with the Legislative Assembly at their annual meeting begun December fifth, last, that having accepted the appointment of Governor in April, 1841, he did not resign his office as delegate nor issue a proclamation ordering an election of a delegate to Congress, and permitted them thereby to go unrepresented in the next session of Congress, and the belief is expressed that his dereliction of duty in this respect was in consequence of a determination on his part to return and occupy the seat as delegate himself should his nomination as Governor be rejected by the Senate which was confidently expected."

It is evident from the old records that Doty was reserving one of the two prominent public offices for himself no matter what course political events might take. Doty's favor, however, the President held sway, and in spite of the protest from the Dodge party in the territory, the President refused to remove Governor Doty and Dodge was re-elected as delegate in 1843 in feeble protest.

The following year Doty's term expired and Nathaniel P. Tallmadge was appointed as his successor. It is very probable that the continued opposition of these two mentioned in different sections of the territory, had much to do with the development of early parties in the state.

In the heat of the intensified political struggles of the day occurred many exciting controversies and many tragedies. One of the outstanding Madison tragedies which came as a result of this political-strife was the killing of C. P. Arndt by James Vineyard in the Council Chamber in 1842.

Both were members of the Council and both had been members of the first legislature held in the Wisconsin territory. The dispute in this particular case was a personal one but an outgrowth of intense political rivalry. A hot argument in the Council led to blows and then to a pistol shot from Vineyard's gun, the shot that killed Arndt.

Vineyard, after being expelled from the Council, was tried on a charge of manslaughter, but he was acquitted on the ground that the deceased was the assailing party.

This intense political rivalry existed in the territory in spite of the fact that every Dodge at that time was expected to be a Democrat. The rivalry came between different factions in the party. The men of the Green Bay country flocked around the standards of Doty while Dodge was the political hero at that time of the settlers in the southwest.

Dane county itself was opposed to Doty. As early as 1839 the Dodge forces held a convention to put forth their candidate and in the subsequent election, Dane county gave Doty but 39 votes.

During the next few years occurred conventions in Madison of the Democrats, the Democratic Whigs and the Democratic Territorial party followed in September, 1843, by the first convention of the Liberty or Abolition faction.

It was three years later, on February 2, 1846, that an act to incorporate the Village of Madison was passed by the legislature. For the first election of village officers party lines were not observed in the city but it was not long before the various gatherings which assembled at Madison found local supporters who contested village and then city offices under the same banners that floated at the head of the territorial and state political factions.

Willing to Overlook

"What?" said the indignant old gentleman, "you want to marry my daughter? Why, sir, it was only a few years ago that you were caddying for me."

"Yes, sir," the young man replied, "but I don't intend to let that stand in the way. I hope I have sense enough to realize that a very bad father-in-law may make a fairly good father-in-law."—Boston Transcript.

The HOME GARDEN

What is Home without a Garden?

Eat vitamins and keep you hair or. That vitamins are a preventive of baldness is a deduction that may be drawn from the latest scientific development of the chemistry of diet.

Those elusive elements in food known as vitamins, found in fresh vegetables, which are not too thoroughly cooked, are found to occupy a most important position in sustaining life.

Your vegetables are known to be specially grown in furnishing vitamins. These are cabbage, lettuce, asparagus and tomatoes. Lettuce, being procurable the year around in city markets, furnishes the most constant supply among the vegetables, while oranges and some of the other fruits also help out.

Lettuce, therefore, from a health standpoint, occupies a very important place. It can be eaten almost daily in some form of salad without packing upon the appetite. Cabbage, of course, could not. Tomatoes and asparagus likewise would become intolerable if furnished day after day.

For general purposes in the home garden, the tomato or egg lettuce will be found the most useful of the lettuce tribe. While it does not have the solid heads of the cabbage varieties, it does have their crispness with a blanching heart and fully as fine a flavor as any of the head varieties.

OVER HUNDRED THOUSAND FISH CAN BE PRODUCED IN ONE ACRE OF WATER

LOCAL ROD AND GUN CLUB IS OPPOSING DRAINAGE PROJECT

Wonderful Production Possible in Water Farming in Marshes Hereabouts

A report has been received by the La Crosse Rod & Gun Club detailing the results of fish-cultural experiment work at the Fisheries Biological Station, Fairport, Iowa, during the calendar year 1921. The outcome of one of the experiments indicates that an acre of uncultivated pond yields a greater increment of meat per acre than does the average acre of wild stock range.

While 125 pounds of meat is considered a fair increment per acre in beef, the pond at Fairport showed an increase of 140 pounds per acre in useable fish in 1921 and 123 pounds in 1920. Another experiment was the production of over 98,000 fingerling buffalo fish in a pond measuring 110,000 square feet in area, or at the rate of 0.84 per acre, or at the rate of 110,000 per acre—a very remarkable production and survival of young fish at the end of the season. The result was obtained in connection with the application of the method of producing an artificial flood in the pond at the season of spawning.

While artificial propagation of the valuable paddlefish has not yet been found practicable, the first attempt to retain the fish in a connected pond (the storage reservoir of the station), originally undertaken about six years ago, is still successful. Of 22 fish placed in the reservoir in 1916, 20 were surviving in 1918 and the same number in October, 1921.

The mistaken idea is prevalent that the drainage of practically all water or marsh areas is a public benefit. Experience has shown in numerous instances that drainage has resulted in destroying a water area, with its varied uses, and left in its place land of little or no value. A careful survey by qualified experts should be made before individual drainage projects are undertaken. Under proper conditions many lakes, ponds, swamps, and marsh areas will yield a distinctly larger return than would the same area drained for agricultural purposes. The development and utilization of all available products of such areas might be termed "water farming."

In addition to the returns in wild fowl, they may also yield the following products:

1. A valuable supply of food and game fishes.
2. An annual return of furs from such fur bearers as the muskrats, raccoons and skunks frequenting them.

3. The production in certain areas of grasses valuable for forage and for the manufacture of grass rugs, which has become a profitable industry; also, in suitable areas, the production of willow suitable for basketry and other purposes.

4. A natural ice supply.

5. A definite help in maintaining the underground water level which is frequently essential for the production of forest growth and other vegetation.

6. An invaluable help in holding back the run-off of flood waters, assisting in preventing excessive erosion and other flood damage. There is little doubt that if shallow lakes and swamp areas along the enormous destruction of lives and property will be seriously increased. The effect of extensive drainage work deserves careful attention in view of its definite relation to the public welfare.

7. Many of the more attractive of such water areas lend themselves admirably for educational uses, and to assist in interesting the people of the state in out-of-door recreation and in the natural resources of plants and animal life which is so important in supplying useful commodities.

Oppose Minneshiek Project

"This is one of the reasons why the La Crosse Rod & Gun Club is opposed to the consummation of the Minneshiek Drainage Project," said Secretary H. E. F. Schulz.

"The Minneshiek bottoms composed of 14,000 acres of marsh land, of which about one-third is breeding ground for fish, would produce 1,508,000 food and game fish annually according to the above figures.

"There is, however, little question that the greatest benefit of all from hunting and fishing grounds is the contribution to public welfare. At the present time it is estimated that there are about 200,000 people in the state of Wisconsin who gain recreation in hunting of one kind or other and many more thousands who participate in the sport of fishing each year.

"The rapidly increasing drainage of marsh areas threatens the continuance of one of the most popular kinds of recreation which will be perpetuated under the terms of a bill which is, at present, before the United States Senate. This bill provides for the purchase or leasing of lowlands and marshes by the Federal government. This bill provides for the establishment of shooting grounds, game refuges and breeding grounds for migratory birds.

"With the growing congestion of population and unrest which such draining produces, the maintenance and development of opportunities for out-of-door recreation, such as is here contemplated, places this bill in the front rank among legislative measures bearing on the public welfare.

"Throughout the state of Wisconsin a very large proportion of the men who spend a certain period each year in hunting or fishing are undoubtedly among our most desirable citizens. Through their out-of-door recreations they develop their resourcefulness and maintain a physical and mental health which is of the utmost value in relation to their civic usefulness."

Paint Creates Prosperity

Save the Surface and You Save All.

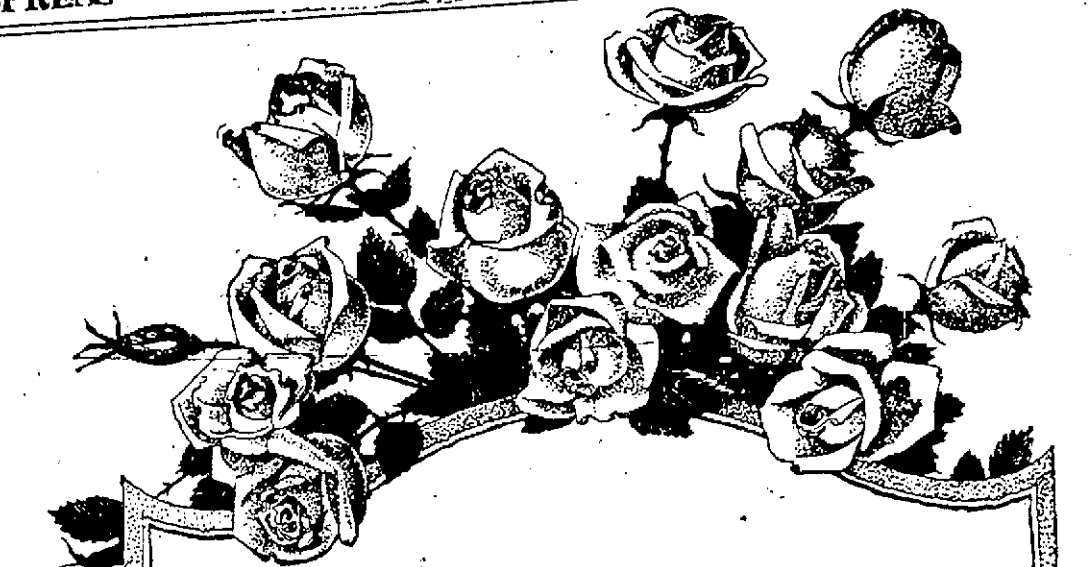

The "run down" house (there is one near you) is fast going to ruin merely because the owner unwisely neglects to keep it protected with paint.

It costs more not to paint than to paint. Paint saves the surface and protects the building from sun, rain, frost and varying weather conditions that bring destruction. Prosperity demands the protection of all exposed surfaces with good paint.

GREAT FILM SPECTACLE

"CABIRIA" WILL BE SEEN AT THE RIVOLI

"Clay Dollars," the new picture starring Eugene O'Brien, which will be shown at the Rivoli Sunday only, presents an original and diverting story of small-time life which reflects for its appeal largely upon heart interest and strong human comedy of the kind that has always been so popular with theatergoers. Mr. O'Brien will be seen as Bruce Edwards, a young man who, after an unsuccessful attempt to make his fortune in the big city, returns to his native village to inherit an estate which was believed to be of some value only to find that it is a worthless piece of swamp land. With true American grit he settles down to turn mud into dollars, being somewhat influenced, however by the pretensions of June Gordon, one of the fair belles of the town. Complications in the plot develop when Bruce meets a mysterious stranger from his past life, the result of his attempts to turn the tables on Squire Willett, whom he finds to be at the bottom of it.

"CABIRIA" MONDAY

Holding its favor with film followers, despite the fact that it is now seven years since it was first shown in America, "Cabiria," the foreign masterpiece, which will be shown at the Rivoli Theater next week, still lays claim to being the most remarkable picture the screen has ever known in its sumptuousness of spectacular scenes and thoroughness of production.

Dealing with the most critical period of ancient history—the life and death struggle between Rome and Carthage—the picture affords opportunities for tremendous effects, which is intertwined one of the truest love stories of those days. The scenario comes from the fertile brain of Gabriele d'Annunzio.

Realism has never reached a higher point in screen production than in the volcanic scenes actually filmed on the slopes of Mount Etna, the rigorous hardships of Hannibal's passage of the Alps which were taken in Switzerland, the burning of the Roman fleet shot in a lake about 25 miles from Turin, and battles about the old fortifications of Civita Vecchia on the Mediterranean.

 Another sensational climax comes in the burning of the Roman fleet, when Archimedes, the Greek philosopher, uses the rays of the sun to set the ships afire.
 Some of the most impressive scenes are filmed around the temple of Moloch, where sacrifices were made daily to the ancient's omnipotent power.
 Betty Compson Thursday
 One of the most unusual roles ever seen in a motion picture is that portrayed by Betty Compson, new Paramount star, in "At the End of the World," which will be seen at the Rivoli Theater next Thursday.
 Miss Compson is seen as "Cherry," the beautiful daughter of a broken down Englishman who runs a cafe and gambling palace in Shanghai.

"OPEN YOUR EYES"—CASINO
 "Open Your Eyes," the flaming photoplay prepared under the supervision of the United States Public Health Service as part of a campaign for a clean nation and a country made safe for posterity, opens at the Casino on Monday. This picture has attracted wide attention, and created a veritable sensation among educators and public officials in every city where it has been shown. In addition to telling a thrilling, living story of love betrayed, "Open Your Eyes" is a picture with a purpose. Vibrant with dramatic power, it gets in under the skin of the spectators and, while it entertains and thrills, it leaves a sobering thought behind.

BILL RUSSELL, SHIRLEY MASON AND "CARNIVAL" PROMISED AT MAJESTIC

"Strength of the Pines," starring the athletic William Russell, will appear today at the Majestic theater. This photoplay, the latest made by Russell, deals with a timberland conspiracy and family feud in the Oregon forests—a conspiracy to fight which in behalf of a lovely girl Russell, as the hero, enters the woodland in defiance of chiefs against his life. His resultant experiences and hairbreadth escapes are said to constitute a drama of unusual strength, marked by photographic beauty that is most appealing.

The chief aim of the hero is to find a promptly dead stolen and hidden twenty years before by villains inspired by land greed. The recovery of this deed forms the big climax of the story, and is declared to be startlingly impressive.

Shirley Mason Monday

Shirley Mason will appear at the Majestic Monday in "Queenie," the Christie comedy in which she plays the misadventures of a girl who starts "life as a denizen in a young ladies' seminary. There are some wonderful adventures in store for the pretty wif, and so charming a little person deserves all the happiness she obtains at the end.

"Carnival" Thursday

"Carnival," which will be the feature attraction at the Majestic theater, beginning Thursday, is laid in historic Venice at Carnival time, the historic time of the year, which begins on Shrove Tuesday. The scenes were taken in the romantic old city, which has been the background for so many wonderful plays from the time of Shakespeare, with his "Othello" and "The Merchant of Venice," up to the present day. The action takes place on the Grand Canal, in the Square of St. Marks with its famous Campanile, the Bridge of Sighs, the Campiello, and other famous spots. It is a story of the sly, unscrupulous and consequently she is able to avoid the pitfalls that lie in the pathway of youth. The other, less fortunate, finds her mother's room busy with social duties to listen to her daughter's questions, and when the lonely girl turns to companions of her own age for knowledge, she gets the first hand from a handsome "cathello." To him the part seems exaggerated for he thinks the Moor should never have condemned his wife on such flimsy evidence. Then he finds himself face to face with a similar situation in his own life.

CASINO—TODAY ONLY

Franklyn Farnum, "Shirley" Hamilton, Francis Ford and Al Hart coming in "So This is Arizona." Readers of the "All-Story Argosy" Magazine will delight in the announcement made by the management of the Casino theatre that today "So This is Arizona" will be shown in picturized form. This attraction will prove of vast interest for it is just the sort of a tale to hold an audience in a firm grip. It pulsates with life and action and fairly teems with breath-taking situations.

Playing the principal characters are Franklyn Farnum, Francis Ford, "Shirley" Hamilton, and Al Hart. Guinevere Bertie, who has lately achieved fame with her impersonation of the heroine in the serial feature "Miracles of the Jungle," assists the quartet of stellar players in this splendid story of the west.

STRAND TODAY

William "Bill" Fairbanks, starring in "Hell's Rover," is an expert with the rope. Everything was ready to show the scene where John Dalmier (Wm. Fairbanks) dashes in the edge of the cliff and lassos the Mexican as he passes below. The Mexican, played by Edward Serra, came dashing along the bottom of the cliff. Director Norfleet called to Mr. Fairbanks to come on. Just as the Mexican passed below Mr. Fairbanks dashed to the edge of the cliff swinging his rope. True to the mark it circled the Mexican's body, but also caught the horse's head at the same time. The horse jumped and Mr. Fairbanks lost his foothold as the rope slipped from his hand, and he only saved himself from a nasty fall by grabbing the brush and holding on until he regained his breath and climbed back to safety. After the incident asserted the funny side of danger was over itself and everybody had a good laugh.

This one is Brown, Gardner and Tahan, and they call their "wedding" review. It carries a special setting of its own, and last week it was held at the Hennepin in Minneapolis. Which would seem to be pretty far guarantee of entertainment, not?

VAUDEVILLE NOTES

Of course there won't be any argument about who's headlining the Majestic Sunday bill—not with Eddie Lloyd and his family booked to appear. The boys have a new travesty on the high cost of living, in which Father Eddie takes the family out for a meal and finds—well, we all know what he finds, and we can all imagine how much fun Eddie and his gang will produce out of it.

Still and all, as we used to say back home, Eddie and the boys' family are not going to be the whole show, not by several yards. There's going to be one of those handsome, charming dance-acting acts, for instance, which have lately transferred some of the beauties of the musical comedy and revue stage to vaudeville.

Then there's to be the dog act, Taxi, a regular canine thespian of marvelous attainments, who is said to do everything but talk and even to attempt that in his own way. At a recent press stuff says Taxi has a human brain, but maybe it's better that. You know, human brains are so common, but there's a soda can, wise dogs. Tennyrate. Taxi has very well all over the up-and-down and there's no reason to expect he'll do as well for us on Sunday.

Not so bad for a prospect, what?

Writer Declares Nation Has Become an Asiatic State of the Great U. S. A.

CONSTANTINOPLE.—A cartoonized figure of a young American has been proposed for adoption as a patron saint for the new Armenian nation. The original suggestion to this effect was made in a prose-poem written by the celebrated Armenian writer, Soghah Stepanian, and published in the Armenian weekly Shavag.

Copied and embossed and framed in scenes of Armenian communities throughout the Near East, his picture, a uniquely phrased composition reads in part:

"The Patron Saint of Armenia today is an energetic, active, athletic young person. He is rich, not only in purse but also in heart. He is our American under; his star is the emblem of his generous gifts."

"Thus there has been another star added to the starry flag of our American unity, the Star of Armenia. We have bound ourselves as a nation to America, we have become in spirit an Asiatic state of the great United States of America."

EVERY BLOW SHOWN IN DEMPSEY-CARP TITLE BOUT FILMS

The famous Tex Rickard motion picture of the Dempsey-Carpenter world's championship boxing contest, held in Jersey City on July 2, will be seen here at the La Crosse theater on April 22-23.

These are the only authentic scenes of the celebrated battle in which Jack Dempsey, returned the world's championship after a four round encounter with Georges Carpentier, champion of Europe. Fred C. Quimby, who directed the taking of the pictures, had a battery of more than twenty cameras, and every detail and blow of the struggle is shown from the time the men entered the ring up to the tremendous action given both of them as they left the arena.

An outstanding feature of the picture is the introduction of "slow-motion" photography, by which means the speed is reduced to one-eighth normal action, thus allowing the audience to study, in minute detail, several of the most sensational incidents during the encounter.

"ORPHANS OF THE STORM"

The scenes of the French Revolutionary Tribunal as seen in D. W. Griffith's greatest production, "Orphans of the Storm," to be presented at the Rivoli starting May 1, might well illustrate any of Carlyle's descriptions of the Awful Five, a committee of judge-jurymen who condemned the accused aristocrats in hatred to their death. The verbal story transmutates into a kind of grim Greek drama, in which the same conditions, even more, hold the spectators with a tense and curious horror. Carlyle's extraordinary eye for the minute significant has recorded a world of little things that are seized on for the picturing. Director Griffith follows the author in regarding it as the outlet of volcanic passions from humanity long oppressed. All this "Orphans of the Storm" depicts as a background for the story of the old stage favorite "The Two Orphans," and in which Lillian and Dorothy Gish will be seen as the two orphan sisters.

A preacher says there is laxity in the matter of the war, preachers ought not to care.

Who were the twelve most "Foolish Wives" that ever lived?

This newspaper will give ninety-two prizes, ranging from $50 to $1, for the best answers to this question.

Do you prize yourself on your knowledge of history, or literature, or mythology? If you do, here is an opportunity to test your powers and at the same time win a prize.

You don't have to be a student, however, to compete successfully. The rules of the contest are so arranged that anyone, by the exercise of a little ingenuity and patience, can participate in the contest and have an equal chance with anybody else.

Today there is printed in this newspaper the first of a series of twelve pictures, each of which will represent a "Foolish Wife" of history, mythology or fiction. Perhaps you can guess marking down carefully the number of the picture which the name is supposed to describe.

Keep all your answers until the twelve pictures have been published. Do not send them in until you have them all.

When you have named all twelve pictures, there is just one more thing you must do. You will notice that the fiftieth "Foolish Wife" is not named.

Who is she? Who is another famous

"Foolish Wife" not included in the list of forty-nine? Write your answer to this question in fifty words or less, and send it in with your twelve names.

The prizes will be awarded to contestants who send in the greatest number of correct answers to the illustrations, and also submit the best suggestion for the fiftieth "Foolish Wife."

Easy and interesting, isn't it? Sure! And it's also profitable! The prizes will total $150. For the best answer this newspaper will give $50, for the second best $10, for the next forty, $1 each, and for the next fifty, two tickets each for "Foolish Wives," the motion picture coming to the Rivoli Theatre.

"OPEN YOUR EYES"

The film "OPEN YOUR EYES" is of great educational value. It should set our young people, as well as fathers and mothers, to thinking. I strongly approve of it and no one should fail to see it.

H. L. WILSON, M. D., Health Officer, Racine, Wis.

Every person above sixteen should see this picture, and then become an active participant in the movement to eradicate absolutely venereal diseases from American life. The picture shows how it can be done.

IRA H. MCINTYRE, Superintendent of Schools, Muscatine, Iowa.

The picture is plain and forceful. It is intended to present this matter on a high plane and the man of vision must feel its true worth. I vision must feel its true worth. I vision must feel its true worth. I vision must feel its true worth.

I would see this film and profit by it. I might see this film and profit by it. I might see this film and profit by it. I might see this film and profit by it.

T. DeWITT TANNER, Rector, Christ Church, Joliet, Ill.

I consider this film the best of its kind which I've seen. The producers are to be especially commended for the modesty and character which characterizes their production. It is noticeable for the absence of that suggestiveness which I am sorry to say characterizes many pictures of this type.

take a chance with garden seeds

IF you are an honest-to-goodness "garden fan" you know the supreme pleasure of eating corn, fresh from your own garden.

But you can never get more out of seed than there is in it. Corn is not just corn, or tomatoes, plain "tomats"—any more than silk is silk. If you think all seeds are alike, just plant Ferry's pure-bred Seeds one season. You will have a surprise as big as did the first man who tasted the melting sweetness of Charlevoix corn.

Dealers nearly everywhere sell Ferry's Seeds. If not near you, write at once direct to us. Write for Ferry's Seed Annual. It's full of valuable garden data, receipts. You get it free and quickly—if you write at once.
